BREATHE PURE AIR.

The Necessity For Filling the Lungs at Each Inhalation.

Breathe pure air always. In the lungs a most important physiological process occurs. It is from here that the blood taden with oxygen is sent to all parts of the body, giving off along its course its onygen and taking up carbonic acid gas, which it brings at last to the lungs, when it is cost out in expiration. More mygen is taken in by inspiration and I ie same process is repeated.

So let your breathing be full and deep, going to the very bottom of the lungs in order that all of the blood in them nay receive its full amount of oxygen before again starting upon its tour of listribution through the body. Can one isò any more forcible argument in favor of loose clothing than this? It is absolitely impossible to secure plenty of exygen of the clothing is worn at all tight, and oxygen is a food which the body must have always in abandance to keep well.

The air leaving the lungs is laden with that deadly poison carbonic acid gas, which if given off in a close room when no provision is made for its escape and the entrance of pure air soon renders the air utterly unfit to breathe. Perhaps some night you will find yourself unable to sleep and tumble restlessly about in bed. When this occurs, go to an open window and inhale the fresh air, breathing slowly and deeply. A few minutes of this and you can return to bed and probably will soon be sleeping quietly. What has happened? By its restlessness the body was asserting its need of more oxygen. Now you have given it what it so emphatically asked for, and it is quiet. We get as much uneasiness and disturbance from the want of this food as when we do not eat enough, only the symptoms are not so well understood nor recognized so quickly Always keep your mouth closed and breathe through your nose. Then the air is warmed, slightly moistened and largely freed from particles of dust, so that when it enters the lungs it c.es not irritate them.

A condition often mer with by physicione is anænria. In this trouble the parient is pale, lifeless looking, tired and generally used up, often without being able to tell distinctly how she does feel. Sometimes these patients say that they have not enough blood It is really only an element of the blood which is wanting, but that is a very important one-namely, the red blood corpusele.

When you know that it is only those corpuscies which have the power to take up and carry oxygen, you see at once how important it is that the blood chould not be lacking in them. Good, wholesome feed, plenty of it and well digested will give you the corpuscles. Furnish them with the exygen and the body will have an important element toward health.—What to Lat

THE SOUTHERN CROSS.

Changing Position In the Reavers of This Celebrated Constaliation.

If Job were to rise from the dead and look upon the heavens, says Professor T. J. J. See in The Atlantic, he would see the constellations related to one another as of old, but he would flud that the pole had shifted its position arrong the stars, and if an immortal could witness the grand phenomenon which the precession of the equinones produces in about 12,900 years he would find the heavens so altered that the fermer aspect could be recegnized only by an understanding of the changes that had intervened

As Humboldt justly remarks, the beautiful and celebrated constellation of the Southern Cross never seen by the present inhabitants of Europe and visible in the United States only on our southern coast, formerly shone on the shores of the Baltie, and can again be seen in that latitude in about 18,000 years. The cross will then be visible on the shores of Hudson bay, but at present it is going rapidly couthward, and in a few thousand years will be invisible even at the extreme point of Florida.

In like manner the brilliant star Canopus in the constellation Argo, situated some 37 degrees south of Sirius, is now visible in the southern portion of the United States. In about 12,000 years it will cease to rise even in Central America. From the same cause, if Ptolemy were to again look upon the heavons at Alexandria, he would be unable to recognize Alpha and Beta Centauri, which he easily saw and catalogued in the time of Hadrian. At present these unquificent stars are just visible at the pyramids, near Cairo, and in a few more thousand years they can be seen by dwellers on the Mile only in upper
